MEMORANDUM DECISION ON MOTION FOR JUDGMENT ON THE PLEADINGS

15 This matter came on for final hearing on November 18, 2011, at 16 11:30 a.m. Appearances are noted on the record. At the conclusion of 17 the hearing the court took the matter under submission. The 18 following constitutes the court's findings of fact and conclusions of 19 law, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7052.

DECISION

21 The motion is granted in part and denied in part to the 22 extent set forth herein. The motion's request for judgment on 23 the pleadings pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(c) is denied as to 24 all claims for relief. The motion's requests, pursuant to Fed.
25 R. Civ. P. 12(h)(2) and (b)(6), for dismissal of the first, 26 second, fourth and fifth claims for relief contained in the first

1 amended complaint filed on June 30, 2010 (Dkt. 34) (the "FAC"),
2 are granted as to moving defendants Mortgage Electronic System,
3 Inc. ("MERS"), IMB HoldCo, LLC ("IMB HoldCo"), IMB Management
4 Holdings, LLP ("IMB Management"), OneWest Bank Group, LLC
5 ("OneWest Group") and OneWest Venture, LLC ("OneWest Venture"),
6 and those claims are dismissed as to defendants MERS, IMB HoldCo,
7 IMB Management, OneWest Group and OneWest Venture without leave
8 to amend. The motion's requests, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P.
9 12(h)(2) and (b)(6), for dismissal of the first, second, fourth
10 and fifth claims for relief as to moving defendant OneWest Bank, 11 FSB ("OneWest Bank") are granted as to defendant OneWest Bank 12 with leave to amend. The motion's request for dismissal of the 13 third claim for relief as to defendants MERS, IMB HoldCo, IMB
14 Management, OneWest Group, OneWest Venture and OneWest Bank
15 (collectively, the "Moving Defendants") is granted as to Moving 16 Defendants without leave to amend. On or before August 12, 2011 17 the plaintiffs shall file a second amended complaint that is 18 consistent with this ruling. If the plaintiffs wish to include 19 in the complaint claims for relief against any or all of MERS, 20 IMB HoldCo, IMB Management, OneWest Group and OneWest Venture, the 21 plaintiffs shall file a motion requesting permission to include 22 those defendants in the second amended complaint, shall file and 23 serve said motion on or before August 5, 2011, and shall set said 24 motion on the first available calendar which provides proper 25 notice to parties in interest. If filed, the motion to amend 26 shall set forth the specific factual allegations which the 27
28

1 plaintiffs would include in the second amended complaint as to 2 those parties which the plaintiffs seek to include as named 3 defendants. If filed, the motion to amend will also toll the 4 August 12, 2011 deadline for filing the second amended complaint 5 set forth above pending the resolution of the hearing on the 6 motion to amend.

7 FACTUAL BACKGROUND

8 By this motion, Moving Defendants move for judgment on the 9 pleadings under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(c), made applicable to this 10 adversary proceeding by Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012.

11 The FAC alleges five causes of action for 1.) Declaratory 12 Relief, 2.) Violation of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a), 3.) Violation of 11 13 U.S.C. § 362(k)(1), 4.) Violation of the Real Estate Settlement 14 Procedures Act ("RESPA"), and 5.) Civil Conspiracy.

15 The FAC grounds its claims for relief on the following 16 alleged facts. The plaintiff debtor Marilyn Javier (the 17 "Debtor") owns real property located at 9836 Mountain Vista 18 Circle, Elk Grove, California (the "Property"). The Property is 19 the Debtor's personal residence. On or about September 14, 2006, 20 the Debtor executed a promissory note (the "Note") payable to the 21 order of "INDYMAC BANK, F.S.B., A FEDERALLY CHARTERED SAVINGS 22 BANK" for the purpose of obtaining a loan. The Debtor executed a 23 deed of trust (the "Deed of Trust") encumbering the Property to 24 secure the Note. The terms of the Note required monthly payments 25 of $1,497.86 over forty years. The Debtor alleges that the Note
26 and Deed of Trust "did not include an escrow account." FAC, ¶

27

28

1 30.

2       IndyMac Bank was subsequently closed by the Federal Deposit
3 Insurance Corporation and a new entity, OneWest Bank was formed 4 to which the assets of IndyMac, including the Note and Deed of 5 Trust, were transferred. The Note and Deed of Trust, along with 6 other assets of IndyMac were first allegedly "passed through" IMB 7 HoldCo, IMB Management, OneWest Venture and OneWest Group to 8 OneWest Bank.

9       The Debtor commenced this chapter 13 bankruptcy case (the 10 "Bankruptcy Case") on October 11, 2009. OneWest Bank filed a 11 secured claim (the "Claim") in the Bankruptcy Case on November 12 25, 2009. The Claim is filed in the amount of $587,773.23.

13       The Debtor alleges that "Defendant, as a matter of normal 14 business practice, conducts an 'Escrow Analysis' pursuant to 15 RESPA upon notice of a bankruptcy filing." FAC, ¶ 47. An escrow 16 analysis allegedly analyzes the advances made by the lender in 17 the twelve months prior to the bankruptcy filing for the purposes 18 of paying of property taxes, insurance and other costs related to 19 the security for a loan and projects those costs into the future 20 in order to determine the amount that the borrower will be 21 required to pay for those costs in the future. The escrow 22 analysis also allegedly compares the amounts advanced by the 23 lender for these costs to the amounts paid into an escrow account 24 by the borrower for payment of those costs; if the result shows 25 that the lender has advanced funds in excess of what the borrower 26 has paid into the escrow account, the lender will generate a

27

28

1 notice of a post-petition increase in the regular monthly
2 mortgage payment. The increase is allegedly intended to recoup
3 the advances paid by the Defendant in excess of the payments made 4 by the borrower to the escrow account. The notices specifying 5 the post-petition increases in payments are sent to the debtor 6 borrower and the chapter 13 trustee.

7 The Debtor alleges that as a result of receiving a notice of 8 a post-petition payment increase, the chapter 13 trustee takes 9 action which results in the collection by the trustee of the 10 increased payment as specified in the lender's notice, which 11 action includes objections to confirmation or motions to dismiss 12 if the debtor is not proposing to pay the full amount of the 13 increased payment. The Debtor alleges that in generating and 14 sending the notices based on post-petition escrow analyses as 15 described above, the "Defendants" fail to distinguish between 16 pre- and post-petition escrow advances and improperly collect on 17 a claim for a pre-petition debt through the ongoing monthly 18 mortgage payment. The Debtor alleges that this practice violates 19 the automatic stay of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a).

20 In this case, the Debtor alleges that such a notice was 21 generated by the "Defendants" on or about October 29, 2009, which 22 notice was sent to the Debtor, the Debtor's counsel, and the 23 chapter 13 trustee, informing those parties that the correct
24 post-petition payment for the loan was $3,119.91. FAC, ¶ 39 & 25 40.

26

27

28

1       The Debtor also alleges that the Defendants' violated RESPA 2 by (1) failing to notify the Debtor when the note and deed of 3 trust were assigned, sold, or transferred; (2) assessing more 4 "risk" in the Defendants' escrow analysis calculations than is 5 allowed by RESPA; (3) improperly accessing the escrow account for 6 payment of property taxes and insurance; (4) failing to credit
7 back charges improperly force-placing insurance when the Debtors 8 had paid for insurance themselves; and (5) performing an improper 9 escrow analysis that resulted in incorrect notices of increase in 10 payments. The Debtor specifically cites 12 U.S.C. § 2604 as the 11 basis for their claims for RESPA violations.

12       Finally, the Debtor alleges that the "Defendants," were 13 engaged in a civil conspiracy for the purpose of "recouping pre-14 petition claims from post-petition estate property resulting in 15 systematic injury to [debtor]" by means of the allegedly improper 16 escrow analyses described above, concealing the post-petition 17 collection of pre-petition claims, and objecting to confirmation 18 of chapter 13 plans based on the improper escrow analyses.

19       In addition to the facts alleged by the Debtor in the FAC
20 summarized above, the court takes judicial notice of the Escrow 21 Account Disclosure Statement dated November 29, 2009 (the 22 "Statement") (Dkt. 70 at 2) and the Deed of Trust dated September 23 14, 2006 (Dkt. 68 at 2), copies of which were submitted by the 24 Moving Defendants with this motion. In the Ninth Circuit, a 25 court may consider a writing referenced in a complaint but not 26 explicitly incorporated therein if the complaint relies on the

1 document and its authenticity is unquestioned. Parrino v. FHP, 2 Inc., 146 F.3d 699, 706 (9th Cir.1998), superseded by statute on 3 other grounds as stated in Abrego v. Dow Chem. Co., 443 F.3d 676
4 (9th Cir.2006); see also Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 5 668, 688 (9th Cir.2001). In this case, both the Statement and 6 the Deed of Trust are referenced in the FAC but are not 7 explicitly incorporated therein. The Debtor does not question 8 the authenticity of either document.

9 Having taken judicial notice of the Deed of Trust, the court 10 notes, contrary to the Debtor's allegations in the FAC, that the 11 Deed of Trust does provide as part of its uniform covenants that 12 the Debtor shall pay the lender periodic payments of amounts due 13 for taxes, assessments, items that can attain priority over the 14 Deed of Trust as a lien or encumbrance on the Property, and 15 insurance premiums. Deed of Trust, Dkt. 68 at 5.

ANALYSIS

18 The Law Applicable to A Motion For Judgment on the Pleadings

19 A judgment on the pleadings under Rule 12(c) "is properly 20 granted when, taking all the allegations in the pleadings as 21 true, the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of 22 law." Nelson v. City of Irvine, 143 F.3d 1196, 1200 (9th Cir.
23 1998). Although the caption of this motion indicates that it is 24 a motion for a judgment on the pleadings pursuant to Rule 12(c), 25 the motion and the prayer contained in the supporting memorandum 26 of points and authorities requests dismissal of the FAC without

27

28

1 leave to amend. However, pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h) (2), 2 a motion made pursuant to Rule 12(c) may be used to raise a 3 defense under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b) (6) that a complaint fails to 4 state a claim upon which relief may be granted. In this case, 5 the Defendants raised a defense under Rule 12(b) (6) as their 6 first affirmative defense in their answer to the FAC filed on 7 July 15, 2010 (Dkt. 92 at 17).

8 The following sets forth the legal standard for dismissal of 9 a complaint where the complaint fails to state a claim on which 10 relief may be granted:

11
12 The purpose of a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b) (6) of 13 the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, made applicable here 14 under Fed. R. Bankr. P. 7012, is to test the legal 15 sufficiency of a plaintiff's claims for relief. In 16 determining whether a plaintiff has advanced potentially 17 viable claims, the complaint is to be construed in a light 18 most favorable to the plaintiff and its allegations taken as 19 true. Scheuer v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 94 S.Ct. 1683, 40
20 L.Ed.2d 90 (1974); Church of Scientology of Cal. v. Flynn, 21 744 F.2d 694, 696 (9th Cir.1984). . .

22
23 Quad-Cities Constr., Inc. v. Advanta Bus. Servs. Corp. (In re
24 Quad-Cities Constr., Inc.), 254 B.R. 459, 465 (Bankr. D. Idaho 25 2000).

26 In addition, under the Supreme Court's most recent 27

1 formulation of Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff cannot "plead the bare 2 elements of his cause of action, affix the label 'general 3 allegation,' and expect his complaint to survive a motion to 4 dismiss." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1954 (2009).
5 Instead, a complaint must set forth enough factual matter to 6 establish plausible grounds for the relief sought. See Bell Atl.
7 Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1964-66 (2007). ("[A]
8 plaintiff's obligation to provide 'grounds' of his 'entitle[ment]
9 to relief requires more than labels and conclusions, and a 10 formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will 11 not do."). Factual allegations must be enough to raise a right 12 to relief above the speculative level. Id., citing to 5 C.
13 Wright & A. Miller, Fed. Practice and Procedure § 1216, at 235-36
14 (3d ed. 2004) ("[T]he pleading must contain something more. . .
15 than . . . a statement of facts that merely creates a suspicion 16 [of] a legally cognizable right of action").

17 In addition, the court notes the following:

18
19 A dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) may be based on the 20 lack of a cognizable legal theory or on the absence of 21 sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal 22 theory. Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir.
23 2001); Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep't., 901 F.2d 24 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1988). . . the Court is not required 25 "to accept as true allegations that are merely 26 conclusory, unwarranted deductions of fact, or

1       unreasonable inferences." Sprewell v. Golden State
 2       Warriors, 266 F.3d 979, 988 (9th Cir. 2001). Courts 3       will not "assume the truth of legal conclusions merely 4       because they are cast in the form of factual
 5       allegations." Warren v. Fox Family Worldwide, Inc., 328
 6       F.3d 1136, 1139 (9th Cir. 2003); accord W. Mining 7       Council v. Watt, 643 F.2d 618, 624 (9th Cir. 1981).
 8       Furthermore, courts will not assume that plaintiffs 9       "can prove facts which [they have] not alleged, or that 10      the defendants have violated . . . laws in ways that 11      have not been alleged." Assoc. Gen. Contractors of 12      Cal., Inc. v. Cal. State Council of Carpenters, 459
 13      U.S. 519, 526; 103 S. Ct. 897, 74 L. Ed. 2d 723 (1983).
 14      . . .

15
 16      Toscano v. Ameriquest Mortg. Co., 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 81884
 17      (E.D. Cal. 2007).

18       A motion for judgment on the pleadings under Rule 12(c) is 19       "essentially equivalent to a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, so 20       a district court may 'dispose of the motion by dismissal rather 21       than judgment.'" Technology Licensing Corp. v. Technicolor USA, 22      Inc., 2010 WL 4070208 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 18, 2010) (quoting Sprint
 23      Telephony PCS, L.P. v. County of San Diego, 311 F.Supp.2d 898, 24      902-03 (S.D.Cal.2004)).

25       If a Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss is granted, 26       "[the] court should grant leave to amend even if no request to 1 amend the pleading was made, unless it determines that the 2 pleading could not possibly be cured by the allegation of other

3 facts." Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000) (en
4 banc), quoting Doe v. United States, 58 F.3d 494, 497 (9th Cir.
5 1995). In other words, the court is not required to grant leave
6 to amend when an amendment would be futile. See Toscano, 2007
7 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 81884 (citing Gompper v. VISX, Inc., 298 F.3d
8 893, 898 (9th Cir. 2002)). Similarly, a court may also grant 9 leave to amend in response to a Rule 12(c) motion "if the 10 pleadings can be cured by further factual enhancement."
11 Technology Licensing Corp., 2010 WL 4070208 at *3.

12

13 Dismissal of Non-OneWest Bank14 Moving Defendants Without Leave to Amend

15 Before turning to an analysis of each of the enumerated
16 claims for relief set forth in the FAC, the court first addresses 17 the inclusion of named defendants IMB HoldCo, IMB Management, 18 OneWest Group and OneWest Venture (collectively, the "Non-OneWest 19 Bank Defendants") in the FAC, which parties were not named as 20 defendants in the initial complaint filed on January 26, 2010.
21 The FAC identifies the Non-OneWest Bank Defendants and alleges 22 that each of the Non-OneWest Bank Defendants held an interest in 23 the loan at some time or provided loan servicing, but does not 24 contain any specific allegations relating to conduct of the Non-25 OneWest Bank Defendants with respect to the Bankruptcy Case.
26 Instead, the allegations in the FAC only allege that OneWest Bank 27

28

1 filed a proof of claim in the bankruptcy case and sent notices to 2 the Debtor regarding the amount of her monthly mortgage payment.

3 To the extent that any conduct of the Non-OneWest Bank
4 Defendants is alleged in the FAC at all, the Non-OneWest Bank 5 Defendants are only vaguely and ambiguously identified with the 6 label "Defendants," "Defendant" or "defendant." In light of the 7 allegations in the FAC and those matters of which this court has 8 taken judicial notice which indicates OneWest Bank is the only 9 named defendants which has actively sought to enforce the Claim 10 in this case, the Debtor's vague allegations are insufficient to 11 state any plausible claim for relief as against the Non-OneWest 12 Bank Defendants.

13

14 Dismissal of Third Claim for Relief (Violation of 11 U.S.C. § 15 362(k)(1)) Without Leave to Amend

16 The Defendants' request for judgment on the pleadings with 17 respect to the third claim for relief is denied, and the claim is 18 dismissed without leave to amend as to all named defendants, but 19 without prejudice to the inclusion of a claim for violation of 20 the automatic stay in an amended complaint, as discussed, infra, 21 in connection with the second claim for relief.

22 The third claim for relief alleges a violation of 11 U.S.C.
23 § 362(k)(1). Section 362(k)(1), however, does not create a right 24 of action but governs the available remedies and measure of 25 damages for a violation of a stay provided by § 362. As a 26 result, because the Debtor cannot state a claim for a violation

27

28

1 of § 362(k)(1), the claim is dismissed without leave to amend.
2

3 Dismissal of OneWest Bank With Leave to Amend

4 Having addressed the Debtor's allegations with respect to 5 the Non-OneWest Bank Defendants, the court now addresses each of 6 the Debtor's first, second, fourth and fifth claims for relief
7 with respect to OneWest Bank.

8
9 1. First Claim for Relief: (Declaratory Relief)

10 This claim for relief is dismissed as to OneWest Bank with 11 leave to amend.

12 The facts alleged by the Debtor establishes the existence of 13 a dispute between the Debtor and some, if not all, of the named 14 defendants regarding the correct amount of the ongoing monthly 15 payments to be made by the Debtor under her note and deed of 16 trust obligations, the correct method by which the escrow 17 analysis should be prepared, and the proper amount of the pre-18 petition claim based on the note and deed of trust obligation.

19 The first claim for relief fails, however, to distinguish 20 adequately among the named defendants with respect to the 21 aforementioned disputes. The Debtor has not alleged facts 22 supporting a need for declaratory relief between herself and all 23 of the named defendants, and, as a result, the defendants have 24 not been given fair notice of the claims being alleged against 25 each of them. See Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 93
26 (2007) (under Fed. R. Civ. P. 8, the plaintiff need only provide a 27

1 short and plain statement of the claim for relief, but must also 2 give the defendant fair notice of the claims being alleged 3 against it). The Debtor's allegations that a controversy exists 4 between herself and "Defendants" is insufficient. It appears, 5 based on the Debtor's general allegations, that her claim for 6 declaratory relief is relevant only to the Debtor and OneWest 7 Bank, the only entity alleged to have taken an active role in 8 enforcing the Claim in ths bankruptcy case. However, the Debtor 9 is given leave to amend to clarify the exact nature of the 10 dispute between themselves and each of the remaining named 11 defendants, to the extent such a dispute exists.

12

13 2. Second Claim for Relief (Violation of 11 U.S.C. § 362(a))

14 This claim for relief is dismissed as to OneWest Bank with 15 leave to amend.

16 The Moving Defendants argue that the facts alleged by the 17 Debtor do not constitute a violation of the automatic stay of 11 18 U.S.C. § 362(a). The Moving Defendants argue that because the 19 Debtor did not allege that the notices sent by the Moving 20 Defendants to the Debtor and the chapter 13 trustee were 21 accompanied by a payment envelope, or that the notices were 22 threatening or coercive, that no claim for violation of the 23 automatic stay has been alleged.

24 The Moving Defendants rely heavily on the recent decision of 25 the Ninth Circuit Bankruptcy Appellate Panel in In re Zotow, 432 26 B.R. 252 (9th Cir. BAP 2010). The facts underlying Zotow are 27

1 similar to those alleged in the instant adversary proceeding.
2 The Zotows were debtors in chapter 13 who objected to a proof of 3 claim filed by BAC Home Loans Servicing, LP ("BAC"). The Zotows
4 objected to BAC's claim on the ground that the Zotows' pre-5 petition escrow account shortages should have been listed in the 6 proof of claim. Rather than include the shortage in the proof of 7 claim, BAC had instead performed an escrow analysis and had sent 8 the debtors and the chapter 13 trustee a post-petition notice 9 which indicated an increase in their ongoing monthly installment 10 payment into the escrow account due to the pre-petition shortage.
11 The notice stated that it was being furnished for informational 12 purposes only and should not be construed as an attempt to 13 collect against the debtors personally. The notice also stated 14 that if the debtors were involved in a chapter 13 proceeding the 15 debtors were required to obey all orders of the court in the 16 event that the amount specified in the notice conflicted with any 17 order or requirement of the court. Based on the notice, the 18 chapter 13 trustee made several ongoing post-petition installment 19 payments to BAC from the debtors' plan payments based on the 20 amount of the payments as specified in the notice. The chapter 21 13 trustee also objected to confirmation of the debtors' chapter 22 13 plan on the ground that the debtors' proposed plan payment was 23 insufficient to fully fund the plan based on the increased 24 payment amount set forth in the notice sent by BAC.

25 The debtors argued that BAC's attempt to collect the escrow
26 shortage, a pre-petition debt, by increasing the ongoing post-
27
28

1 petition installment payment through the chapter 13 plan rather 2 than including the escrow shortage in the proof of claim 3 constituted a violation of the automatic stay. Following an 4 evidentiary hearing the bankruptcy court concluded that BAC 5 should have included the pre-petition escrow shortage in its 6 proof of claim, but also found that BAC had not violated the 7 automatic stay.

8 The BAP affirmed the bankruptcy court's conclusion that BAC
9 had not violated the automatic stay. As the BAP stated:

10
11 [T]he automatic stay does not prevent all communications 12 between a creditor and the debtor. Morgan Guar. Trust Co. of 13 N.Y. v. Am. Sav. and Loan Ass'n, 804 F.2d 1487, 1491 (9th 14 Cir.1986); Connor v. Countrywide Bank, N.A. (In re Connor), 15 366 B.R. 133, 136 (Bankr.D.Hawaii 2007). Whether a 16 communication is a permissible or prohibited one is a 17 fact-driven inquiry which makes any bright line test
18 unworkable. See Henry v. Assocs. Home Equity Servs., Inc., 19 272 B.R. 266, 278 (C.D.Cal.2002) (whether creditor's 20 activities involved coercion or harassment is fact-specific 21 inquiry); Cousins v. CitiFinancial Mortgage Co. (In re
22 Cousins, 404 B.R. 281, 287 (Bankr.S.D.Ohio 2009) (noting 23 that determining whether a violation of the automatic stay 24 occurs can be complicated).

25
26 Zotow, 432 B.R. at 258.

1       The BAP went on to identify prohibited communications as 2 "those where direct or circumstantial evidence shows the 3 creditors actions were geared toward collection of a pre-petition 4 debt, were accompanied by coercion or harassment, or otherwise 5 put pressure on the debtor to pay. . . . [M]ere requests for 6 payment and statements simply providing information to a debtor 7 are permissible communications that do no run afoul of the stay." 8 Id. "In the end, one distinguishing factor between permissible 9 and prohibited communications is evidence indicating harassment 10 or coercion. When such evidence is present, a disclaimer on the 11 communication that it was being sent 'for informational purposes 12 only' is ineffective." Id. at 259. The BAP identified three 13 significant facts in Zotow that informed its conclusion that the 14 post-petition notice sent by BAC did not violate the automatic 15 stay: (1) the notice was not in the nature of an invoice and 16 merely set forth the fact of the debt; (2) BAC did not send the 17 notice with a payment coupon or envelope and without any 18 informational component; and (3) BAC sent only one notice to the 19 debtors, and the information contained in that notice was 20 information that the debtors would need to propose a feasible 21 chapter 13 plan. Id. at 259-60. The Zotow court also found that 22 BAC did not violate the automatic stay by receiving increased 23 post-petition payments from the chapter 13 trustee.

24 In the instant case, the copy of the Escrow Account 25 Disclosure Statement dated October 29, 2009 submitted by the 26 Moving Defendants states in two places that it is not being used

1 to collect a debt, but is for informational purposes only. It
2 also states that IndyMac Mortgage Services, a division of OneWest 3 Bank, which sent the statement to the Debtor, calculated an 4 anticipated escrow shortage amount of $11,985.76 by the end of 5 October, 2009. As in Zotow, the Statement is not in the nature 6 of an invoice. The Statement also states that it is for 7 informational purposes only, though it does state that the Debtor 8 was "required" to have a certain balance in her escrow account by 9 the end of October, 2009.

10 The question, then, is whether the Debtor's allegation that 11 notices regarding changes in her payment is sufficient to elevate 12 the alleged actions of one or more of the Moving Defendants to a 13 violation of the automatic stay. The court concludes that the 14 allegations contained in the FAC are not sufficient. The court 15 does not reach this conclusion because the sending of a notice 16 regarding post-petition payment increases can never be a 17 violation of the automatic stay; the court does not foreclose the 18 possibility that a creditor's sending of a notice to a debtor, 19 whether informational or not, may rise to the level of coercion 20 or harassment. As the Zotow court pointed out, whether 21 communications are prohibited or permitted or whether they rise 22 to the level of coercion or harassment are fact-driven inquiries 23 for which there are no bright-line rules.

24 Instead, the court concludes that the allegations in the FAC
25 and under the second claim for relief are not sufficient to state 26 a claim upon which relief may be granted because, as with the 27

1 first claim for relief, they do not give each of the Moving 2 Defendants and the other named defendants fair notice of the 3 claims being alleged against them. As with the first claim for 4 relief, the general allegations in the FAC and in the second 5 claim for relief are replete with vague references to 6 "Defendants," "defendants" and "Defendant," with no apparent
7 effort made to distinguish between each of the eleven defendants 8 named in the caption of the FAC.

9 In addition, other than the sending of a notice regarding a 10 payment increase, the FAC is devoid of other allegations which, 11 construed in the light most favorable to the Debtor, would show 12 coercive or harassing behavior on the part of any of the Moving 13 Defendants. As a result, the second claim for relief is 14 dismissed with leave given to the Debtor to amend the FAC to 15 specify which of the named defendants committed acts which 16 allegedly violated the automatic stay and, to the extent that 17 they exist, to allege additional facts regarding the sending of 18 the Notice or other acts committed in violation of the automatic 19 stay.

20

21 3. Fourth Claim for Relief (Violation of Real Estate Settlement 22 Practices Act (RESPA))

23 This claim is dismissed as to OneWest Bank with leave to 24 amend.

25 The fourth claim for relief alleges that the "Defendants"
26 violated RESPA by (1) failing to notify the Debtor when the note 27

1 and deed of trust were assigned, sold, or transferred; (2)
2 assessing more "risk" in the "Defendants'" escrow analysis 3 calculations than is allowed by RESPA; (3) improperly accessing 4 the escrow account for payment of property taxes and insurance; 5 (4) failing to credit back charges for improperly force-placing 6 insurance; and (5) performing an improper escrow analysis that 7 resulted in incorrect notices of increase in payments. However, 8 the Debtor cites only 12 U.S.C. § 2604 in connection with the 9 claim. Section 2604, however, governs the form and distribution 10 of special information booklets regarding the nature and costs of 11 real estate settlement services.

12 In their written opposition, the Debtor has identified other 13 sections of RESPA that she asserts were violated by the Moving 14 Defendants. These sections, however, are not identified in the 15 FAC. In the context of a motion for a more definite statement 16 under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(e), the Ninth Circuit has stated, "even 17 though a complaint is not defective for failure to designate the 18 statute or other provision of law violated, the judge may in his 19 discretion . . . require such detail as may be appropriate in the 20 particular case." McHenry v. Renne, 84 F.3d 1172, 1179 (9th Cir.
21 1996). Although the Moving Defendants have filed a motion for 22 judgment on the pleadings rather than for a more definite 23 statement, the court finds that McHenry v. Renne is applicable
24 here, insofar as a motion for a more definite statement and a 25 motion for judgment on the pleadings are both concerned with the 26 sufficiency of the plaintiff's pleading. In this case, the court

1 dismisses the fourth claim for relief with leave to amend as to 2 the specific provisions of RESPA that the Debtor asserts were 3 violated by one or more of the named defendants because RESPA is 4 a complex statute that covers several sections of Chapter 27 of 5 the United States Code. Requiring the Debtor to specify the 6 specific provisions that they believe were violated prevents both 7 the Moving Defendants and the court from guessing which 8 provisions of RESPA the Debtor believed the Moving Defendants 9 violated and gives fair notice to all parties and the court of 10 the claims being asserted.

11 The fourth claim for relief is also dismissed with leave to 12 amend because, like the first and second claims for relief, it is 13 replete with vague references to "Defendants" and "defendants" 14 without any distinction between the eleven named defendants in 15 the caption of the FAC. The allegations underlying the fourth 16 claim for relief do not give the remaining defendants fair notice 17 of the claims being asserted against them. As a result, the 18 fourth claim for relief is dismissed with leave given to the 19 Debtor to amend the claim to specify which of the remaining named 20 defendants violated RESPA and the specific manner in which they 21 violated RESPA.

22

23 4. Fifth Claim for Relief (Civil Conspiracy)

24 This claim is dismissed as to OneWest Bank with leave to 25 amend.

26 Civil conspiracy is not an independent tort. Instead it is 27

28

1 "merely a mechanism for imposing vicarious liability; it is not 2 itself a substantive basis for liability. Each member of the 3 conspiracy becomes liable for all acts done by other pursuant to 4 the conspiracy, and for all damages caused thereby." Favila v.
5 Katten Muchin Rosenman LLP, 188 Cal.App.4th 189, 206 (2010). A 6 civil conspiracy is "activated by the commission of an actual 7 tort." Applied Equip. Corp. v. Litton Saudi Arabia Ltd., 7 8 Cal.4th 503, 511 (1994).

9 In addition, "[t]he basis of a civil conspiracy is the 10 formation of a group of two or more persons who have agreed to a 11 common plan or design to commit a tortious act. The conspiring 12 defendants must also have actual knowledge that a tort is planned 13 and concur in the tortious scheme with knowledge of its unlawful 14 purpose. However, actual knowledge of the planned tort, without 15 more, is insufficient to serve as the basis for a conspiracy 16 claim. Knowledge of the planned tort must be combined with 17 intent to aid its commission." Id. (citing Kidron v. Movie 18 Acquisition Corp., 40 Cal.App.4th 1571, 1582 (1995)).

19 Here, the Debtor alleges that "Defendants" engaged in a 20 conspiracy for the purpose of "recouping pre-petition claims from 21 post-petition estate property resulting in systematic injury to 22 debtor" by means the allegedly improper escrow analyses described 23 above, concealing the post-petition collection of pre-petition 24 claims, and objecting to confirmation of chapter 13 plans based 25 on the improper escrow analyses. These allegations, however, are 26 not sufficient to state a claim that any of the named defendants

1 were involved in a civil conspiracy. The Debtor has not alleged 2 any agreement between any of the named defendants to a common 3 plan or design to commit a tortious act, nor have they alleged 4 that any of the named defendants had actual knowledge that a tort 5 was planned and that they concurred in the tortious scheme with 6 knowledge of its unlawful purpose. This claim for relief also 7 suffers from the same defects as the first, second and fourth 8 claims for relief in that it also fails to distinguish between 9 any of the named defendants with respect to the alleged civil 10 conspiracy. For these reasons, the court dismisses the fifth 11 claim for relief as to OneWest Bank with leave to amend.

12 Rather than issue judgment in favor of OneWest Bank, the 13 court dismisses the first, second, fourth and fifth claims for 14 relief in the FAC with leave to amend as to OneWest Bank because 15 the court finds that it is possible that the deficiencies
16 identified in the FAC may be cured with further factual
17 enhancement. The court cautions the Debtor that the second 18 amended complaint must clearly identify which of the remaining 19 named defendants violated their legal rights and the specific 20 manner in which they violated those rights; if the Debtor fails 21 to do so those defendants who are not clearly connected with the 22 acts complained of will be dismissed without leave to amend.

23 The court will issue a separate order consistent with this 24 ruling.
